

Maximising the value of clinical development programs – July 2007

The hospital clinical sector is a development resource for biotechnology companies, as it has a pool of expertise and knowledge that can assist in clinical development programs. Nucleus Network together with Melbourne University, as hosts of the Clinical Research Excellence 07 conference, sponsored the June Biomebourne BioBreakfast. The program delved into the pros and cons of engaging with hospital clinicians to help drive drug development programs.
